Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices socreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but ence a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy. I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. Coolbaugh, Milo Center, N. Y.

MRS. BURDICK'S CONFESSION. Mrs. Alice Hull Burdick told on the witness stand in Buffalo yesterday how Arthur R. Pennell had come into her life and wreck-d it. She had known him, she testified, for about s'x years, having met him and his wife at a card party when Mr. Burdick was also present. The families became intimate, and about a year later Mrs. Burdick accompanied Mrs. Pennell on a trip to New Haven to attend the Yale commencement exercises. It was on this trip that Mrs. Burdick's intimacy with Pennell began.

Pennell's love letters to Mrs. Burdick, couched in passionate and endearing terms, were read to her by the district attorney. She identified all of them as in the handwriting of Pennell. She admitted receiving some of them; others she said she could not recall.

She identified as in Pennell's handwriting a letter of November 19, 1900, in which Pennell wrote that he sometimes thought he must kill Mr. Burd'ck.

It was brought out that Mrs. Burdick had kept these letters locked in a strong box in her home until New Year's Day, 1901, when her husband took the box away from her after a violent struggle, in which he choked her. She testified that she was first ordered by Mr. Burdick to leave his house in May, 1901. She went to Atlantic City. Letters written by her at this time to Burdick pleading to be forgiven and taken back were introduced.

Burdick insisted in his letters that Pennell must leave Buffalo before he would take Mrs. Burdick back. Mrs. Burdick wrote that she could not get Peanell to consent. Finally, she wrote that he had promised to leave without fixing any date. He had prom donce before and broke his word. Mrs. Burdick was permitted, neverthe'ess, to return to her home, after an absence of three weeks, so manly promising to be a good wife and mother to her husband and children. She testified that she made this promise in good faith. Pennell soon began renewing his ad-vances to Mrs. Burdick secretly. She was powerless to resist him. She testified to a list of places where they met. District Attorney Coatsworth has a witness, a servant employed by the McNeills, who lived next door to the Burdick house, who is prepared to swear that, during the time covered in question, she one day saw Pennell sneak hurriedly out of the side door of Burdick's house and jump the fence. Burdick had come unexpectedly, and Pennell, in his anxiety to get away, almost jumped mon the servant in scaling the fence. Mrs. Burdick admitted that at the times she met Pennell she wore a ring he had given her over her wedding ring.

Mrs. Burdick was dressed wholly in black, except for a narrow band of white about the throat. There were black plumes in her hat draped with a black veil, which was drawn upward, revealing a sallow, careworn face. She is a small woman, scarcely more than five feet in height, and rather trim of figure.

Her age is 41 years. Her face is pluin and homely, her nose prominent, her eyes large and dark. Her black hair was brushed back from a well-rounded forehead. Her mouth and chin are her worst features. The mouth is large, the lips coarse, and the chin recedes so abruptly that she seems to have hardly any chin at all.

During the examination Mrs. Burdick's eve brows and mouth were constantly twitching nervously, and her whole body trembled at times. She seemed almost oblivious of her audience, addressing her answers to the district attorney in low tones, that were at times scarcely audiable a dozen feet from the witness chair. At times she moistened her lips with her tongue and then dried them with a handkerchief she held constantly in her b'ack-gloved hand.

There was a resigned, hopeless ex-pression on her pale face from the beginning, which even the reading of the assionate love missives failed to dis When she took the letters from the district attorney her hand trembled. At no time was there remorse in her The references to her voice or eyes. love for her children and her love for Pennell alike failed to move her. Her drawn features showed no evidence of shame as she confessed her shortcomings. It seemed as if the tragedy in which she has played so prominent a part had completely deadened all her sensibilities.

The courtroom was crowded while the examination was in progress. There were many well-dressed women in the audience, and in one corner of the room a lot of school girls blushed and tittered at the revelations. Most of the women smiled when the love-letters were being read, and seemed to forg t the humiliatien and suffering they were causing the must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.

There was no sympathy in any faces when the district attorney read the pleading letters of Mrs. Burdick asking to be taken back to home and children.

A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for. A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it.

stomach and other organs of digestion and ous, fun-town men and women.

"About ten years ago I began to be affilicted with stomach trouble, also diarrhea," writes Mr. Walters, of Autrin, Mo. "In warm weather it grew worse, until it would throw me into a cramping chill. Was troubled so often that I sometimes thought my end had cone. Treed many remedies, but they gave only temporary relief. In November, 1590, thought I would try Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I got six bottles and took five in succession, then thought I would wait for a time and take the one left. Soon found I had symptoms of the trouble coming back, so took the sixth bottle and it cured me. I have enjoyed the best of health this summer and the credit all belongs to your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I can't express my many thanks to Dr. Pierce for his remedy, for it did so much for me Werds cannot express how severely I suffered.
